Information entered in the calculator is used to determine a presumptive amount of child support that may be deviated from to reach a final child support amount. Printable electronic forms are produced for filing with the court consisting of a Worksheet and Schedules. Begin by entering information for your Worksheet on the Basic Information Worksheet tab. Helpful instructions are included to assist as you navigate the calculator.

Announcements

- At some point you will need to make a worksheet available to a judge. Check with the superior court clerk or judge's office to determine how the judge wants to receive the worksheet, i.e., as (1) a paper copy handed to the judge during the hearing, (2) by viewing it from your laptop while in the courtroom or (3) made available through the online calculator. If the judge wants the worksheet made available through the online calculator, go to Search Folders-Worksheet, expand the folder, identify the worksheet you want the judge to see, and in that folder click the white button labeled "Make Available To Court," and follow the instructions.
- The two Excel child support calculators and EZ paper worksheet were discontinued October 1, 2018. The Online Child Support Calculator, found on this web page, replaces the Excel calculators and EZ worksheet.
- The 2018 quadrennial review of Georgia's Child Support Guidelines has been completed and an Economic Study Report issued. The report recommended "no change" to Georgia's Basic Child Support Obligation Table. View Commission Report (<https://georgiacourts.gov/csc/>)/content/business-child-support-commission.
- As of 1/12/2016, Microsoft will no longer offer support/security updates for several versions of Internet Explorer (IE). (Internet Explorer End of Life (<https://endoflife.software/applications/browsers/internet-explorer/>)) If you encounter issues with the Child Support Calculator while using any version of IE, please switch to a different web browser.
